Black Friday marks the start of frantic holiday shopping, the day when retailers offer their best deals of the season to lure in eager shoppers. While some gift-givers now choose to digitally add items to shopping carts from the comfort of bed instead, many still line up outside of stores at the crack of dawn in search of major discounts. This is not a modern phenomenon, as these photographs from the Library of Congress of 20th century New York City reveal. Like today, New Yorkers of the early 1900s were drawn to the magical window shops and displays. Ahead, explore vintage photos of shoppers browsing New York City stores looking for the perfect presents, postcards and more.

Temporary lane closures suspended for holiday weekend

New York wants to make travel easier over the Thanksgiving long weekend.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

From Wednesday through 6 a.m. Monday morning, temporary lane closures in New York state will be suspended to help ease holiday travel.

"Suspending roadwork this busy holiday weekend allows motorists to spend less time on the road, and more time with friends and family," said New York State Thruway Authority Executive Director Matthew J. Driscoll.

The suspension is part of Governor Cuomo's Drivers First Initiative, which prioritizes the convenience of motorists to help minimize congestion and delays due to work on bridges and construction. However, some work will continue. For a list of Thruway lane closures, check out thruway.ny.gov.

There will also be an impaired driving enforcement campaign from Nov. 27 to Dec. 1. The campaign is designed to help prevent unsafe driving. Law enforcement will be stopping and arresting impaired drivers.

Governor Cuomo said in a press release, "The Thanksgiving holiday is one of the busiest travel times of the year and we want to do all we can to ease congestion and help New Yorkers get where they need to go safely and quickly."

Gov. Cuomo added, "I urge all motorists to drive safely, stay alert and don't drive distracted - and if you need to answer a phone call or text, use one of the many rest areas or text stops. I wish all New Yorkers a safe and happy Thanksgiving."

This Thanksgiving weekend, Gov. Cuomo also wants all New Yorkers to remind New Yorkers to follow the Move Over law this weekend. The law requires motorists to move over or slow down for ambulances, tow trucks, law enforcement vehicles, fire vehicles, construction or maintenance vehicles.

"The suspension of construction during the busy Thanksgiving travel period will help keep traffic moving and also improve safety for motorists along our highways," said New York State Police Superintendent Keith M. Corlett. "State Troopers will be highly visible throughout the weekend, and we urge drivers to do their part by obeying posted speed limits, putting away their smart phones, and planning for a safe ride home if holiday plans include alcohol."

Bronx man, battling own legal woes, brings gun rights case to U.S. Supreme Court

Retired New York City bus driver Efrain Alvarez, who is challenging a local regulation that restricted the transport of handguns outside city limits at the U.S. Supreme Court, holds a bullet at his home in Bronx borough of New York City. REUTERS

Two weeks before Efrain Alvarez and his attorneys asked the U.S. Supreme Court to hear their challenge to a New York City regulation that limited where licensed handgun owners could transport their weapons, police officers showed up at his Bronx apartment and took away all his firearms.

The officers walked past the bullet-making equipment in his cluttered entranceway and past the trophy deer head hanging on his living room wall. From two imposing steel vaults in the back bedroom, they confiscated around 45 firearms, including five handguns.

"I'm still numb about it," the 64-year-old retired city bus driver said of the August 2018 seizure. "It's my lifelong collection."

The officers arrested Alvarez, and he was charged with filing a false police report over a claim that one of his handguns had been stolen, a misdemeanor. As a result, Alvarez said, the very handgun license whose transport restrictions he is challenging has been suspended for the second time this decade.

The legal battle over the New York measure is the biggest gun rights case at the Supreme Court since 2010, with the justices set to hear arguments next Monday. The challenge is backed by the National Rifle Association, an influential gun rights lobby group closely aligned with Republicans including President Donald Trump, a fellow New Yorker.

The regulation restricted transport of handguns by licensed owners to shooting ranges within city limits but allowed hunting during designated seasons. The lawsuit claims the measure violated the U.S. Constitution's Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms.

After the regulation was amended in July to allow for transporting handguns outside New York City, city officials unsuccessfully asked the Supreme Court to drop the matter and cancel the arguments, asserting that the case was moot.

The state's NRA affiliate, the New York State Rifle and Pistol Association, filed the lawsuit in 2013 with Alvarez and two other gun owners as plaintiffs, after authorities told the men that the regulation prevented them from participating at a shooting competition in New Jersey or bringing their guns to second homes elsewhere in the state.

> "My suspension has nothing to do with my fight in court."
> Efrain Alvarez

Alvarez said he joined the suit because he thought it was ridiculous that he could own a handgun but not travel to compete with it.

In the lawsuit, he and the two other gun owners are described as "law-abiding residents of New York City." Alvarez does not think his own legal troubles make it awkward or inappropriate for him to challenge the regulation.

"My suspension has nothing to do with my fight in court," Alvarez said in an interview. Alvarez also said he accepted a deal offered by the Bronx DA's office to drop the charge in six months if he is not arrested again. REUTERS

USPS 'Operation Santa' returns to U.S. cities

Here's what happens when you send a letter to Santa.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

This year, children across the nation will enjoy a little extra holiday cheer thanks to Operation Santa, which is making its festive return to post offices across the country.

Operation Santa allows people to "adopt" letters to Santa Claus and send responses and thoughtful gifts in Santa's place. According to postal officials, each year there are hundreds of thousands of letters to Santa. Many of the letters ask for toys and games, but some ask for basic necessities or help for themselves or a loved one.

The USPS says, "The vast majority of letters for Santa Claus are addressed 'Santa Claus, North Pole' or just simply 'Santa' – these letters are processed just like all the other letters, but because they do not have a complete address, or zip code, the Postal Service mail sorting equipment processes them into a default area. The default letters are then sorted – mail that might have been incorrectly addressed is taken to one place and the Santa letters to another place."

To get involved, individuals can go to a local post office and choose to adopt a letter. People in New York City and Chicago have the option of adopting letters online, as well. If you are getting involved online, you will go through a short registration and ID verification process.

If someone chooses to adopt a letter in person, they are required to fill out paperwork and show a valid ID; a state or federal ID works. Then customers can read and adopt a letter or multiple letters. To protect the writers of the letters, some information, such as last name and address, are not visible.

Customers will have to pay the postage to mail the letter-writer a gift. Once the postage is paid, a retail associate will match the box with the letter writer by using the code.

The program has been around since 1912, when Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock allowed local postmasters and employees to respond to letters written to Santa.

Below are the cities participating in letters sent from Santa, according to the USPSOperationSanta.com:

- Austin, TX
- Baltimore, MD
- Boston, MA
- Chicago, IL
- Cleveland, OH
- Denver, CO
- Grand Rapids, MI
- Los Angeles, CA
- New York, NY
- Orlando, FL
- Philadelphia, PA
- Phoenix, AZ
- Sacramento, CA
- San Jaun, PR
- Washington, DC

4 Ways You're Shopping Cyber Monday All Wrong

You're one of the many shopping on Cyber Monday. But chances are you're going about it the wrong way. We put together a list of some of the most common shopping mistakes.

1. You're missing out on coupons
Cyber Monday is meant to be shopped online. So search coupon sites before you buy – it'll only take a little bit of your time. Don't just settle for the Cyber Monday sale prices you see online. Chances are you can stack a coupon (or two or three) on top of those sales

2. You're forgetting about Black Friday
Look back at Black Friday prices to remind yourself of the deals that were. And if Cyber Monday sales don't beat them, hold out a little while longer and consider skipping Cyber Monday and waiting for last-minute sales before Christmas.

3. You're limiting yourself
Cyber Monday sales don't just happen at websites like Walmart, Best Buy and Target. In fact, cyber deals extend to products like hotels, plane tickets and even carpet.

4. You're feeling pressured
Much like Black Friday, Cyber Monday has become a weeklong affair. So keep checking back over the next few days for more deals on a variety of items.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Shoppers share Black Friday strategies that actually work

If at first you don't succeed, talk to someone who has.

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

Black Friday is arguably the biggest discount day of the year, but making the most of it requires some practice, planning and strategy.

So ahead of Black Friday on Nov. 29, we talked with shoppers and shopping experts to hear their best — and worst — Black Friday stories from years past.

Here's what they said, and what you can learn from them.

The professor: Expect the unexpected

Vicki Morwitz knows a thing or two about Black Friday. She's the Bruce Greenwald Professor of Business at Columbia Business School.

She also spent years as a Black Friday shopper — combing through stores with her mom as part of an annual tradition.

Nowadays, she keeps Black Friday at arm's distance. But she still checks for deals. Like last year when, on a whim, she spotted a travel sale for a boutique luxury hotel she had dreamed about booking for her trip to Israel.

"I just happened to go on their website… and they had a 50% off Black Friday sale, so it was now in my price range, and I booked it and was very, very happy," Morwitz says.

Tip: Check your favorite stores and businesses on Black Friday, no matter how obscure. Some luxury brands may offer a discount, even if they rarely go on sale.

The researcher: Ignore the hype

Some 71% of Americans plan to shop on Black Friday this year, according to a recent NerdWallet study conducted by The Harris Poll.

That's a lot of shoppers.

But not everything is a great deal on Black Friday. "Don't believe the hype," says Danny McLoughlin, content and research director at RunRepeat, an athletic shoe review and price aggregator site.

McLoughlin studied price data from the past three years for thousands of sneakers. According to the pricing analysis by RunRepeat, from Aug. 1, 2018, to July 31, 2019, sneakers were cheaper on 66% of those days than they were on Black Friday.

Not exactly what you would expect from a day assumed to have the best deals on everything.

Tip: Start monitoring prices now. That way, you'll know how much a product has been discounted — if at all.

The blogger: Resist FOMO

As you search for deals this holiday season, there's no need to limit yourself to Black Friday itself. Christy Palmer, blogger at AllThingsTarget.com (not affiliated with Target), says Black Friday deals are available early — and late.

"Many online stores start their Black Friday sales prior to Black Friday, so you can often grab the deals you want and you don't even have to leave your home," Palmer said in an email.

She said she's also seen deals that are equal to or beat Black Friday prices even after Black Friday is over.

Tip: Continue your savvy shopping habits after Black Friday by monitoring prices, signing up for retailer mailing lists and using coupons.

The cyber shopper: Stay home

This Black Friday, Lydia Senn will be shopping online in her pajamas with a cup of coffee in hand and Netflix on her screen.

Senn, who is the owner of the blog Frugal, Debt Free Life, doesn't bother going to the store. She also doesn't interrupt family time on Thanksgiving for shopping. She's found standout deals online, like a $30 markdown on an Instant Pot a few years back.

Her shopping prep includes mapping out a shopping list and looking at Black Friday ads online from coupon websites.

Tip: Avoid the crowds and shop Black Friday deals from home. Cyber sales generally happen from Thanksgiving Day and to the Monday after, Cyber Monday.

The savvy consumer: Stick to necessities

Ravi Gehlot is a web developer from Sarasota, Florida. He shops all year long, including on Black Friday. In fact, that's when he scored big discounts on Dell monitors.

But despite his deal-hunting prowess, Gehlot might have the best Black Friday advice of all: Don't shop just to shop.

Given his past success snagging impressive deals, we asked if he's going shopping on the day after Thanksgiving this year. His reply? No, because he doesn't really need anything right now.

Tip: Plan out the products you really need (either items for yourself or holiday gifts for others), then hold tight to that list during Black Friday sales.

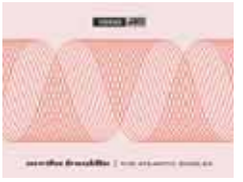
Metro's picks for Record Store Day

Black Friday 2019

While many people will be out shopping on Black Friday for slashed prices on items such as iPhones and clothing, many of us will be lining up at the crack of dawn to get our hands on some limited edition vinyl for Record Store Day's Black Friday edition. Here are four of our picks for this year's festivities.

Lizzo - "Coconut Oil EP"
While Lizzo is having a monumental year, it is worth it to see where the multi-talented artist got her start. This Black Friday, the folks at Record Store Day will be reissuing her 2016 "Coconut Oil EP" on a "milky white" 12" vinyl pressing with a coconut oil scented insert. For those unfamiliar with this early release, the EP contains the empowering single "Good as Hell." This is a necessary Black Friday purchase if there ever was one.

Pearl Jam - "MTV Unplugged (3/16/1992)"
It's hard to think that back in 1992, Pearl Jam was a young and hungry band out to prove themselves. But as their debut album "Ten" had been viewed as an instant classic upon its release, the band was still trying to show the world that they were a force to be reckoned with on stage. For Black Friday this year, Record Store Day will be issuing the first vinyl pressing of one of the band's first true landmark televised performances on "MTV Unplugged." This seven-song performance contains such favorites "Alive," "Black" and live favorite, "Porch."



Aretha Franklin - "The Atlantic Singles Collection 1968"
For the avid soul collector, this 7" singles collection from Aretha Franklin is a must have. This four disc box-set contains four singles collected from the time when the 'Queen of Soul' was hitting an unbelievable stride with her two classic albums from 1968, "Lady Soul" and "Aretha Now." This collection contains such hits as "Think," "Say a Little Prayer" and a rousing cover of Sam Cooke's "You Send Me."

Miles Davis - "Early Minor: Rare Miles From The Complete In A Silent Way Sessions"
In 1969, Miles Davis was going through a transitional phase in his ever-expanding musical vocabulary. He had begun to move away from the quintet approach of his seminal earlier recordings into the uncharted territory of his monumentally influential album, "Bitches Brew." But before that album, he released another landmark album, "In a Silent Way." On Black Friday, Record Store Day will be releasing rare selections of those sessions on vinyl for the very first time

5 Great places to visit on Small Business Saturday

While many of us will be out today reaping the benefits of discounted items at the steep price of lining up for hours on end and loading up their digital shopping carts for Cyber Monday, the tradition of Small Business Saturday is a good excuse for people to give back to their communities by shopping locally.

Started in 2010 by American Express as a way to help small businesses, the event has only grown with every year with small businesses offering giveaways for customers who stop by as a way to encourage them to come back throughout the year. According to the Andersonville Study of Retail Economics, for every $100 you spend at a local business, $68 of that purchase will stay within your community.

ISTOCK

With that, it's clear to see your dollar makes a difference. Here are some local stores that will be encouraging you to "Shop Small" on Small Business Saturday this year …

Baz Bagels
This LES institution will be getting in on the fun of Small Business Saturday this year by offering customers special blue marble colored bagels all day long. While you're there, make sure to grab a side of their Latke Deluxe topped with nova, sour cream and chives.
Baz Bagels, 181 Grand St., bazbagel.com

Happy Paws
The charming pet store on Lafayette Street, Happy Paws, will be opening its doors to those shopping with their pets by handing out customized dog treats to the first 125 customers to stop by. They will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., so make sure you head there early.
Happy Paws, 316 Lafayette St., happypawsinc.com

Oddfellows
Oddfellows Ice Cream Co. has become a local favorite with their delicious menu of flavors that is updated on a daily basis with such past entries as diverse as Rum Raisin to Foie Gras flavored cones. To celebrate Small Business Saturday, their Houston St. location will be selling a limited edition menu of blue cotton candy and sprinkles themed ice creams.
Oddfellows, 55 E Houston St., oddfellowsnyc.com

The Jones Restaurant
This NoHo restaurant will be offering a special "Small Adds Up" menu with three options to choose from including a special Doughnut Project doughnut, potato chips and non-alcoholic apple cider. This offer will only be available on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., so make sure to stop by during your shopping spree.
The Jones Restaurant, 54 Great Jones St, thejones.nyc

Gasoline Alley Coffee
To start your day off, make sure to grab a coffee at Gasoline Alley Coffee on Lafayette to get a free "Shop Small" branded brownie with your purchase. Only the first 200 customers will be able to snag one of these treats, so use your best judgement!
Gasoline Alley Coffee, 325 Lafayette St., gasolinealleycoffee.com

TIME TO LET STEROID

PANTORNO'S PERCH

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno

The voting process for the Baseball Hall of Fame has become quite the convoluted, maligned and controversial process.

What once was the highest honor for a baseball writer has created a target on their backs due to the fundamental ideologies that split the baseball-viewing world.

These are pivotal times in Major League Baseball. While commissioner Rob Manfred is entrenched in an investigation of the Houston Astros' sign-stealing scandal, he's also attempting to keep the game more relevant to a younger generation who refuse to watch a ball game for three hours.

Blame technology, blame millennials, blame whomever you'd like. But the fabric of America's Pasttime is under attack — which will have baseball purists around the world up in arms.

But that's another column for another day.

I used to consider myself a baseball purist — believing that the game was as pure as it could be following Jackie Robinson's debut in 1947.

Before he broke the color barrier, baseball was a game of mythical contradictions.

For a game that represented America and all that was right with democracy, it excluded more than it included.

Cheating — in the form of throwing games for bettors or having pitchers doctor baseballs or, yes, even sign stealing — was commonplace.

And in my ignorance, I thought baseball corrected itself throughout the decades. The spitball was outlawed and the harshest punishments were implemented on those who bet on the game (see the 1919 Chicago White Sox or Pete Rose).

Though I still truly believe that "Shoeless" Joe Jackson should be in the Hall of Fame and was duped into the ring that saw the White Sox throw the World Series.

So, naturally, I looked at the sweeping steroid epidemic that gripped Major League Baseball at the turn of the millennium as the largest threat to baseball.

The players that defined the game during my childhood — Mark McGwire, Barry Bonds, Rafael Palmeiro, Sammy Sosa, Alex Rodriguez, Roger Clemens — were found guilty of taking PEDs, which gave them an unfair advantage in what I always believed was mostly a fair game.

It tainted their career achievements and has withheld them from the Baseball Hall of Fame as the writers responsible for voting them in have policed the situation with the most ardent fervor.

For the most part, I had agreed with them.

That meant keeping out Bonds, Major League Baseball's all-time home-run king with 762 round-trippers.

Last year, he received 59.1 percent in his seventh year on the ballot. A player needs 75 percent of the vote for enshrinement and at least five percent to stay on the ballot for the next season.

Now in his eighth year of eligibility, he has three more shots to get in before the 10-year limhave yet to receive Hall of Fame inductions because of their links to steroids. GETTY IMAGES

it eliminates him from the ballot.

That meant keeping out Sosa, who ranks ninth on that list with 609 home runs. This is also his eighth time on the ballot and he received just 8.5 percent of the vote last year.

Rodriguez, who ranks fourth with 696, could also experience these same difficulties when he's eligible for enshrinement in 2022.

Palmeiro was considered one of the greatest all-around hitters of his generation, recording 3,020 hits and 569 home runs.

But he'll forever be remembered for wagging his finger in defiance at a grand jury in 2005 while denying his steroid use. A few months later, he tested positive.

He's not even on the ballot. Neither is McGwire.

Clemens is one of the greatest pitchers in MLB history with 354 wins, seven Cy Young Awards and 4,672 strikeouts. Yet he was at 59.5 percent of the vote last year as he enters his eighth year of eligibility.

Up until the last few years, I was perfectly fine with not seeing these players gain access to the Hall of Fame.

They cheated. They didn't deserve it.

But then I started doing some digging and realized that baseball has always had its notable cheaters. And they're in Cooperstown.

While steroids received all the publication after the Mitchell Report's release in 2007, amphetamines were a much larger problem for much longer.

Whether it was "greenies" or "beans" or "uppers," ballplayers from the 1950s to the 2000s would take amphetamines, which amped up the central nervous system. This honed in a player's concentration, aiding in the all-so popular term "locked-in."

Think of the biggest names in baseball from that era. Chances are, they were linked to amphetamine usage.

Hank Aaron — baseball's home-run king before Bonds — admitted to using amphetamines. So did Rose.

The likes of Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle and Willie Stargell have also been linked to greenies over the years.

It is believed Mantle also used a corked bat — as discovered during a 2013 auction of one of his game-used bats — and was injected with a cocktail of amphetamines and steroids during the famous 1961 home run race between him and Roger Maris.

Even Babe Ruth used a laminated bat — which was later outlawed — during the 1923 season. He also allegedly injected himself with sheep-testicle extract to try and gain an advantage at the plate.

You can't split hairs and say one form of cheating or using unnatural tactics to gain an edge is more egregious than another.

The list of players who looked to gain an unfair advantage in baseball is endless and for the most part, undocumented in the Hall of Fame besides pitchers in the Deadball Era.

Why should Bonds, Clemens and Sosa — amongst others — be barred while others skated into the hall?

It's hypocritical.

It's time to let these guys into the Hall of Fame before their eligibility runs out.

horoscopes

♈ Aries Discuss personal matters and resolve your differences with important people. Added responsibilities will leave you on edge. Make love, not war.

♉ Taurus Make this a memorable day. Spend time with loved ones. Focus on friends, family and those closest to you. A hobby will turn into a lucrative venture. You will benefit from your efforts.

♊ Gemini Keep your expenses to a minimum. Good advice will go much further than cash when it comes to someone who needs help. Attend a money-management seminar.

♋ Cancer Nurture meaningful connections. Situations will get blown out of proportion if you don't face problems quickly. A better relationship will be the result of compromise.

♌ Leo An idea you come up with could be a moneymaker. Don't hesitate to turn it into something concrete. A little effort can go a long way. Hard work will pay off.

♍ Virgo Take an innovative approach to life, love and personal happiness. A change to the way you do things will save you money and ease your stress. Romance is encouraged.

♎ Libra Avoid risky ventures. Take care of unfinished business to avoid criticism. Refuse to let someone bait you into a dispute or dump unwanted responsibilities in your lap.

♏ Scorpio Pass along items you no longer need. A donation made to a worthy group will put you in good standing with someone who can help you in the future. Romance is on the rise.

♐ Sagittarius A business venture will excite you. Do research to make sure you know what you're getting into. Don't overspend to make an impression on someone.

♑ Capricorn Keep your secrets to yourself. Take time to think matters through before sharing your intentions. Spend time with the people you know you can count on for good advice.

♒ Aquarius Keep busy. Don't lose sight of your goals because someone is tempting you with something that will benefit them, not you. Listen, observe and do your own thing.

♓ Pisces Offer time, not money or possessions, if you want to help someone. Love and respect will be yours if you keep at it. Set high standards and do what's fair.
